

Bisnode recognized as one of Sweden's best Managed Companies

Bisnode has been named one of Sweden's Best Managed Companies for 2019, a recognition sponsored by Deloitte in collaboration with Nasdaq. The award is based on criteria that assess Bisnode's strategic focus, the company's operational capacity, corporate culture and the economic development.

“We have in a short time gone from being several companies with different cultures and strategies to becoming one Bisnode with a common strategic agenda and clear processes. Our vision is clear: We shall be the European leader in smart data and analysis. The fact that we now are recognized as one of Sweden's best managed companies is of course a fine acknowledgement that we are on the right path”, says Magnus Silfverberg, CEO of Bisnode.

The program "Best Managed Companies" was founded by Deloitte in Canada in 1993 and has since been established in over 20 countries around the world. Sweden's Best Managed company was launched in 2018 by Deloitte in collaboration with Nasdaq. 20 companies have participated in the application process and an independent jury has selected 12 companies that meet all quality requirements.

“There are many well-managed companies in Sweden, and it has been exciting to get in touch with some of them through this program. We are excited to be involved in highlighting fine companies that are so important parts of the Swedish business community, says Håkan Sjögren, independent jury member and Managing Director & Responsible for listings at Nasdaq Stockholm.
